

Journalist: Did you know which police station was affiliated with the place?

Maryam: The Sudanese later told me it was Dokki Police Station... I didn't know initially.

Journalist: Did they refuse to file the report?

Maryam: They flat out refused, saying I must provide his full name, but all I know about him is that people call him "Rida."

Journalist: Did you know his whereabouts?

Maryam: Yes, I told them I know the location of the café he frequents. He took me from downtown and kept convincing me that the apartment was close to the place, but it was in 'Azbet El-Nakhl,' which is a considerable distance away.``