

Ahmeed Al-Zaydani - 2

Regarding substituting a financial sum and using it as compensation for a woman's share in the inheritance – be it movable possessions, or land, or residential buildings. If the girl or married woman is fully content with this, and has not been subject to any coercion, deceit or trickery, and if she is fully competent and at least 18 years old... in this case, there is no problem with accepting a material compensation, as long as the amount is equivalent to the value of the property or possessions.”
